

1. The Prague Concert Company (hereafter referred to as TPCC) respects the privacy of visitors and users of its website.

2. TPCC does not require any personal information for standard access and use of its website. All personal information provided to TPCC despite this fact (that is, despite TPCC not requesting it) will be used by TPCC as randomly acquired personal information and will not be processed in any further way.

3. In individual cases where TPCC will require the provision of personal information in connection to the access and/or use of its website (e.g., for registering to the registered-user-only section of the website / to loyalty programmes, etc.), the provision and use (and processing) of this data will be subject to the conditions stipulated within the policy for personal data usage available on the given website. If these conditions of personal data usage will not be available on the given website, the provision and use of said information will be subject to the conditions found in paragraph 4 herein.

4. By providing personal information to TPCC via its website (e.g., by filling out and sending a registration/login form, etc.), the user of the website gives The Prague Concert Company, s.r.o., based at Na Kozačce 1, 120 00 Prague, Czech Republic, IČ (Identification Number): 645 77 333, registered at the Municipal Court in Prague, file number 41525, section C, his or her agreement with the processing of all personal data provided, including sensitive personal information, to the extent provided by the user of the given website. TPCC is entitled to process the personal information of the user of the website exclusively for its own purposes, namely, to present and promote TPCC, its products and services, and to send information regarding these matters, or for other advertising and marketing purposes (including via electronic communication as set out by the Czech Electronic Communication Act). TPCC will not give the provided personal data to any third party. Consent to the processing of personal information is given voluntarily for a fixed period of time, and TPCC can process the personal information of the user of the website until this consent is withdrawn, with that the user is entitled to withdraw this consent at any time. The user of the website has the right to access his or her personal information, the right to correct his or her personal information, and other rights stipulated mainly in §12 and §21 of the Czech Personal Data Protection Act. TPCC can also process the personal information of the user of the website via another subject. Consent according to this paragraph also includes the consent to receive information and news from TPCC, its offers, and other related information and commercial messages, sent to the user's email address and possibly also to other contact addresses that the user provided to TPCC via its website (e.g., by filling out and sending a registration/login form, etc.), including consent provided in the sense of the Czech Certain Services of Information Companies Act. This consent to receive information is given freely for a fixed period of time until it is withdrawn by the user of the website.

5. Registration to the Concert Club website and consent with the terms and conditions of website usage takes place via the registration form. Successful registration is only possible when the user fills in all the required information in the registration form. The information about the user must be correct and up to date, with that the processing of said information by TPCC must comply with the conditions stipulated in paragraph 4 herein.

6. TPCC will use the personal data received on its website in an aggregated form to obtain information regarding the overall number of visitors to the website, the number of visitors to individual web pages and individual domain names. This process will not make any personal data accessible.

7. The website of TPCC may contain links to websites operated by third parties. TPCC does not have detailed knowledge of the contents of such websites. By placing said links on its website, TPCC only enables third parties to access said websites. TPCC does not accept any responsibility for the contents of said websites. The contents of websites that are linked to by TPCC are not supported or approved of in any way by TPCC. TPCC does not vouch for or have responsibility for any information or materials located on third-party websites or for any violation of legal regulations or the rights or rightful interests of third parties that would take place on third-party websites. The responsibility for all the contents and functionality of websites linked to by TPCC, and for any damages caused in connection with the use of said websites, belongs exclusively to the parties operating said websites. The TPCC privacy policy and the rules, principles, procedures, and consequences stipulated within this document do not apply (or, do not necessarily apply) to third-party websites. Therefore, we recommend users to inform themselves about the terms and conditions of the collection and use of personal data of third-party websites directly from the parties that operate said websites.

8. This website is not sponsored, supported, administered, or connected to the social network Facebook, Facebook Inc., or Facebook Ireland Limited. The user is given to understand that he or she is providing personal information to the operator of the website and not to Facebook Inc. or Facebook Ireland Limited.

9. TPCC reserves the right to change or amend this document at any time. Any such change will come into force at the moment it is made public on the website of TPCC, unless a different date of effect is specifically stipulated.